Rafi Amir-ud-Din, Amina Farheen, Muhammad Khan, and Rao Muhammad Atif presented their research titled "Between Prosperity and Planet: Assessing Religious Impact on Economics and Environmental Preferences in 64 Countries" in 4th International Conference on Interdisciplinary Approach held in Islamia University Bhawalpur on November 14, 2024. The study examines how religiosity influences economic and environmental preferences across various global contexts. This research is part of the GCF-860 project, which aims to address the widespread use of plastic bags by producing reliable and impactful evidence for policymaking. By investigating the role of religion in shaping attitudes towards environmental protection, this work contributes to the project's goal of encouraging sustainable behaviours with meaningful policy implications.
